The New Christian Church.

The work of demolishing the old Hughes property on High street, preparatory to building the new Christian Church, is almost completed. This was one of the oldest homes in the State, being at least one hundred years old. The walls were much thicker than those of the present day, and the bricks are as good now for building purposes as they were the day they were laid. There is no way of finding out who was the builder or when it was built. Mr. Geo. W. Davis, who is probably our oldest citizen, having lived here for seventy-four years, says the house was an old one when he was a boy. There have not yet been made a definite plans in regard to the new church, although it is possible it may be built out of brown brick, with stone trimmings which would make a very beautiful building. When completed it will be one of the handsomest houses of worship in the State.

Geo. W. Davis has everything in the wall paper line, from the cheapest to the very finest. Nothing in the latest styles and designs has escaped him. Call and examine.

The Carnival.

All arrangements have been made with the "weather man" and a perfect day is promised for the big carnival on June 12th. The action of Garth Lodge in offering to turn over the net receipts of the carnival to the hospital fund has struck a sympathetic chord in the breast of every Parisian, and everybody is now hustling to make the day a howling success. There has never before been such unanimity of feeling towards the success of a public affair in Paris as there is over this carnival. For the first time in the history of the town every fraternal organization will take part in the parade, and the soliciting committee has reported only one refusal on the part of the merchants to subscribe. The county and surrounding towns are being thoroughly advertised and from reports received there will be an enormous crowd in town on that day. Everyone is expected to decorate as lavishly as possible and do everything in their power to make the day one not soon to be forgotten.
